School Counseling	12:30 School Counseling Xello - Provide more detail about this career and college tool. Career and skill exploration; free from NHED. Not a social emotional program. Light pilot with 9th grade English classes (connects to the text 7 Habits of Highly Effective Teens) and 6th grade during guidance homerooms to introduce students to the platform. Heidi and Eric now have accounts set up to see details Videos giving an overview of Xello Students take an interest survey to help them explore career options that would fit their personality and interests. ILC can also use this information to help organize career talks during PAWs that fit student interests and target recruiting more specifically. It can also be used for career related field trips for students to help them take the best advantage of opportunities. There is a family portal that we can learn more about and open next year when we expand usage.	School Board Instructional Committee members set up their account & explore the platform. Include information/overview of Xello in MA monthly newsletter; include the two videos shown? Or on Social Media/blog Explore and open the family portal - next
MCS Math	Math interventions and professional learning at MCS • The MCS interventionist team is being re-assigned roles based on student needs.	Additional information from MCS Principal
Social Studies Proposal	1:15 Meredith Brown, Dept Chair • Social Studies proposal • HS Graduation Requirements New Course: New Hampshire: Land, People, and Identity	The Social Studies department also needs to develop a plan with

	for freshmen only to begin the changes to the new pathways to 4.5 credits for students beginning in the year of graduation 2030. New Course: Principles of Business: This course combines Business Management and Entrepreneurship and Marketing in an E-Commerce World. The three courses will be combined to pair down the electives for Business as the current Business teacher is also certified in Social Studies. Having fewer electives in the Business department will allow for the business teacher to start picking up additional sections of Social Studies classes. If the Social Studies department continues to offer 4.5 credits, they may need to hire another part-time teacher in the future or eliminate more business classes.	embedded credits so that additional staff are not needed. Request approval for the two new courses in December. Prepare full proposal for courses in Social Studies with both options at the January School Board meeting. Present to School Board - approval in January with two options for updating the Program of Studies
